IDENTIFIED AS COLEMAN

MAN WHO GAVE NAME OF HILL REC-OGNIZED BY DETECTIVE.

The Prisoner, When Arraigned in Police Court, Demands Jury Trial-Bond Required.

Henry E. Hill, the alleged professional ank sneak of many aliases who was arrested on a charge of having attempted to steal a package of internal revenue stamps nesday morning, as published in The Star at the time, was interviewed this morning by Detective Seymour Butler. Detectives Weedon and Boyd went with the visiting detective to the first precinct station, where the prisoner was confined. Detective Butler is connected with the Pinkerton agency in New York, and he is considered one of the best men in the business. It is stated that he has identified more crooks in the United States than any other detective. He promptly recognized the prisoner as the notorious "Billy" Coleman, whose record was published in yesterday's Star.

The visiting detective held a lengthy conversation with the prisoner. Hill, alias Coleman, responded to the detective's greeting when he addressed him as Coleman, and admitted that he had met the de-man, and admitted that he had met the detective on former occasions.

Detective Butler identified the prisoner when he was arrested in New York last November. At that time he was suspected of following the cashier of the Park National Bank, who had some registered packages which he was carrying from the post office to the bank. He was then photographed, but the prosequition sgainst him was abandoned, and he was discharged from custody. Hill was today arraigned before Judge Kimball in the Police Court. Through his counsel, Mr. Campbell Carrington, he asked for a trial by jury, and the case was set for for a trial by jury, and the case was set for Tuesday next. Hill was required to give se-curity in the sum of $1,000 for his appearence at the time stated.

Jane's "Maneuvers" Exploited.

In the "Maneuvers of Jane" Henry Arthur Jones has aimed to give a simple, wholesome and clean comedy, with two love stories embodied. Jane, the heroine, loves a penniless youth and manages to marry him after a series of tribulations. Constantia Gage, Jane's chum, almost forces Lord Bapchild to propose, after a series of harrowing, humorous experiences. While it will be thus seen that the story is simple, yet the delicious comedy bits inserted generously have contributed to its success. It will be at the National next week, and will be presented by Daniel Frohman's brilliant organization from Daly's Theater.

Evidence Not Sufficient. Justice Barnard, in Equity Court No. 2, in the proceedings for divorce instituted November 11 last, by Arthur Stahl against Helen M. Stahl, has signed a decree dismissing the bill on the ground that the evidence does not sustain the charges therein. INSPECTION OF HERD.

Tests to determine whether tuberculosis exists among the herd of cows belonging to St. Elizabeth's Asylum were concluded this morning at the asylum barns. Experts of the government from the bureau of animal industry of the Agricultural Department conducted the tests, which have been in progress for two days. The number of cows examined is about 140, and the work was done with great care. A month or so ago a strange malady appeared among the dry cattle at the barns, and in among the dry cattle at the barns, and in a short time fifteen valuable cows died therefrom. The exact nature of the sickness has not been determined definitely even yet, it is said, but some of the cows examined after death were found to be infected with tuberculosis, and the superintendent of the asylum, Dr. Richardson, decided, as a precautionary measure, to have the whole herd inspected. The results of these tests have not been announced.

The friends of the orchestra crowded the opera house, and every number was greeted with pronounced applause. Mr. Kaspar selected his program with a view to satisfying every phase of musical taste. The opening number was the "Der Freischutz" overture, which was interpreted in excelent style, the violins especially doing remarkably good work. The general precision and accuracy of tone and the complete obedience to the beat of the director showed how thorough had been the rehearsals of the orchestra and incidentally reflected credit upon the concert master. reflected credit upon the concert master.
The standard set by this number was maintained in all the work that the orchestra did, both by itself and as accompanist. Two numbers that were especially interesting were "La Cygne du Carnival des Aminaux," by Saint-Saens, and "Der Frubling" for were "La Cygne du Carnival des Aminaux," by Saint-Saens, and "Der Fruhling," for string orchestra, by Grieg. The first was played by fifty violins, in unison, and was exquisitely played, as was the plano accom paniment by Mr. Henry Xander. The two movements of Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the march from "Tannhauser" were the other contributions by the orchestra, and in both these its interpretive as well as its executive faculty was displayed.

The soloists were Mrs. H. C. Browning, who substituted for Mrs. Thos. C. Noyes, and Mr. Anton Gloetzner. There was general disappointment that Mrs. Noyes was too ill to appear, but Mrs. Browning was loudly applauded on her appearance, and eral disappointment that Mrs. Noyes was too fill to appear, but Mrs. Browning was loudly applauded on her appearance, and she sang the same selection with the orchestra that Mrs. Noyes had rehearsed—the "Ah Fors e Lui" aria from "La Traviata." She was in good voice and fully justified the reputation she has acquired in this city. She subsequently sang a song from "Mignon" and a Spanish serenade, both of which received merited applause. Mr. Gloetzner played Grieg's plano concerto in A minor, a composition rarely heard, and in which some of the Norweglan musican's peculiarities of melody and construction are quite marked. Mr. Gloetzner accomplished the technical difficulties of the score in a masterly manner and showed a thorough understanding of the author's meaning. He added to his high reputation as a planist by his work last night. The soloists were both liberally rewarded with floral tributes, and Prof. Kaspar was presented on his entrance with a floral lyre of massive proportions. > Court Presents the Diplomas-Program of Exercises.

The graduation exercises of the Spence rian Rusiness College, which were held yesterday afternoon at the Academy of Music vere attended and enjoyed by an audience which taxed the calacity of the theater. It was the thirty-fourth annual commencement, and forty-three young men and wo-men were awarded the diplomas which guarantee their qualifications to enter practical business pursuits.

The floral tributes from parents and friends to the class of 1900 were marvels of beauty. After "Twilight," "The Fortune Teller" and the "Man Behind the Gun," selections by Weber's Band, the class came upon the stage in the "Spencerian College upon the stage in the "Spencerian College March," executing a series of graceful figures, the ladies being in Grecian costumes. The exercises were opened with an invocation by Rev. A. W. Pitzer, and the graduates were presented by Mrs. Sara A. Spencer with a few introductory remarks. Wm. McArthur Green of Alexandria, whose father, James Johnston Green, as Mrs. Spencer explained, graduated from the college in 1876, delivered the address of welcome on behalf of the gentlemen, declaring that the college had been a continual revelation of the height and breadth and depth of what business means—its ethics, mutual rights and obligations and social relations.

ethics, mutual rights and obligations and secial relations.

Miss Mabel Grey Elliott, salutatorian for the ladies, said that the nation is devoting a large part of its wealth, its brain and brawn to war and conquest, and sends forth tens of thousands of young men annually, selected because of their strength, courage and ambition, with slender chance of bringing them home again. will build up the home and protect the aged and helpless."

After "Queen of Beauty Waltz" by the band, Mr. Hoyt Lacey Johnston of Ohio delivered the valedictory for gentlemen.

He described some princely men of the national capital who had helped to make this city great and famous, and who did not drift with the tide after a youth spent in sowing wild oats, but grew to their splendid altitude by striking downward and reaching upward and outward, thus becoming a blessing to every worthy work, a terror to every form of evil. or to every form of evil.

A new world of thought and action has been opened to us. It calls us forth with clear, ecmmanding voice and some of us go hence to return no more, entering upon new careers with broader fields before us than we dreamed of in earlier days."

After music, "Hearts and Flowers," Mrs. Spencer presented the class of 1900, in a few earnest words, saying that it had been difficult this year to keep a graduating class; the demand upon the college for its best workers had been so extraordinary.

The Story of Health or Disease-Keep It Pure.

Pimples, Boils and Sores Are Signals of Danger.

They show that the blood is impure, and it is in impure blood that nearly all diseases have their origin. Scrofula, salt rheum, rheumatism, catarrh and even dyspepsia may be traced to bad blood and are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which makes the

If you are troubled with pimples and eruption you should at once begin taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, besides cleansing the blood of all in purities, will create a good appetite, cure that ired feeling and make you strong and healthy. Then those more serious ailments will gain a foothold and you will have permanent good health
